IT IS STILL SENDING THE DEATH RATE BEYOND THE RECORD.

But Sergt, Duan Claims to Have Succeeded in Corralling Bis Cold Wave—Castle Garden Very Comfortable for a Night— Reports at the Careners' Office of More Sudden Donths.

Plucky Sargt. Dunn, of the Weather Hureau, in the top of the Equitable Building. claims that he has corralled his long-pre dicted cold wave at last, and says that it has come to stay for at least twenty-four hours How much longer it may remain he does not like to state, but he wants it understood that Whenfever his services may be required in the future he is prepared to prophesy as boidly as he has in the past.

"The immediate indications," he said.

"The clouds are for cooler, fair weather. The clouds which you see in the west are the forerun-which you see in the west are the forerunmers of the wave that is gradually moving down upon us from the northwest, accompamied by an area of high barometer. Two high barometer areas have already passed us during the last five days, but we didn't eatch the effect. The third time never fails."

The coolness beg n to set in last night, and at Vo'clock this morning the thermometer at the observer's station registered 76 degrees, the lowest for several mornings. At 9,80 it was 79, and it was said that it would not probably go much above that figure to-day.
The humidity at the same hour was 75.

What is left of the heated belt now extends down along the Atlantic seaboard, and if the natural order of events prevail, the last vestige of it will be wafted out to sea before sundown.

In the words of the Sergeant: "We may

In the words of the Sergeant: "We may expect a cool afternoon and probably quite a chilliness in the evening." THE COOLNESS ELSEWHERE.

The weather map for to-day, which was arranged from observations made at 7 o'clock this morping, showed the temperature in various parts of the country to be as follows; Chicago, 56 degrees; Boston, 70; Albany, 68; 58, Louis, 70; New Orleans, 72; Jacksonville, 78. The coolest place in the United States to-day was Marquette, Mich., where the thermometer was 44, and the hottest was Key West, which reported 84 degrees. BUT THE MERCURY CLIMBED.

While the weather clerk was imparting this information to the reporter the big thermometer at Broadway and Ann street was climbing up among the eighties, and at 10 o'clock it had reached 84. It was surrounded by a group of perspiring citizens, who were watching the upward progress of the bloodgred fluid with a look of evident discouragement upon their features.

"They may call this a cool wave," said a sman in a blue and white striped tenns blouse, with a red bandanna around his neck in the place of a collar, but, in my opinion, it's very cheap goods. If the Weather Bureau can't give us anything better than this it ought to go out of the business."

There were fewer palm-leaf fans out on lower Broadway, to be sure, and it was evident that New Yorkers, after the experience of the past four days, were disposed to be grateful for any sort of temperature short of the grilling point.

AT CASTLE GARDEN,

AT CASTLE GARDEN. At Castle Garden all the windows in the big rotunds were opened and admitted cooling breezes from the bay. Supt. Jackson said that although he had more than a thousand emigrants to care for they had all passed a comfortable night and to-day there was no extraordinary sickness or suffering from heat.

A DEAD HORSE. Opposite the Boreel Building, in Broadway, was a dead horse, which looked as if it had been lying there at least twelve hours. Passers by were offended by the sight as well as by the foul odors which it emitted, and wondered why the health authorities did not remove it.

SUDDEN DEATHS BEPORTED Several additional cases of sudden death have been reported at the Coroner's office which were attributed to the heat. They were: Tillie Keith, nine months old, of 98 Chris-Sopher street.

Ignatz Ullman, of $25 East Third street.

AN UNPRECEDENTED DEATH-BATE. During the twenty-four hours ending at moon to-day 220 deaths in this city were reported at the Bureau of Vital Statistics. Almost all were due, directly or indirectly, to the heat. The mortality thus recorded is at the rate of 1,500 a week, and is unpreceded the the rate of 1,500 a week, and is unprecedentedly heavy.

The great majority of the victims were children under five years of age, and three-fourths of the whole were inmates of tenement-houses and public institutions.
